What's your welcome

The creation of an inclusive environment is one of the most important factors for recruitment and retention. This interactive session will cause fire and EMS services to pause and reflect on their recruitment activities to attract the next generation of first responders and how to stand out as an employer of choice. Tangible strategies and activities will be shared that can be immediately applied to attract and retain your next generation's responders. Hear directly from those currently seeking job opportunities on what they are looking for in their career search.

Additionally-

We will talk about Generation Z and the connection to other generations
